BLAINE ONCE MORE.

SOUTHERN SCHOOL BOOKS BEFORE THE SENATE.

Senator Blaine Gets Excited Over the Nature of Southern Text Books, and is Soothed by Vance.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—SENATE.—The Senate resumed consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. It was agreed to take a vote on the so-called political part of the bill at four o'clock to-morrow.

Senator Blaine spoke at considerable length, taking ground against States Rights, and was followed by Senator Vance. He also spoke of the system of education in Southern schools as being of an invidious character, and quoted from school books to show that such was the fact.

Senator Vance said he was requested to state the fact, which was also within his own knowledge, that the partisan school literature spoken of by Senator Blaine is non-existent. During the war a few such works circulated, but since then no Southern child had ever seen one. "No measure advocated by Southern men," said Mr. Vance, "has a fair hearing in this body; the fact that it is upheld by them is the signal for reviving old issues not pertinent to the question." He thought it essential to a proper consideration of this bill that it be discussed on its merits, but the arguments of its opponents were party denunciations. If this were an action at law and such answers to the complaint were filed they would be rejected as frivolous. Mr. Vance made a very earnest demand that proper respect be given to Southern representatives and commented upon the Republican logic concerning elections, which was: "Elections shall be free if we have to surround the polls with bayonets; according to State laws, if we have to overawe the civil authorities by force to have our way; they shall be pure, if it takes John Davenport and every criminal in our cities to avenge and give them purity; they shall be conducted without appearance of violence if artillery has to be trained on every ballot-box, and they shall be fair if we have to arrest every man offering to vote the Democratic ticket; unless we can use the army at the polls to count in the next Presidential nominee, we will abandon the defenses of the country.

The State Medical Association.

Special to the News.

GREENSBORO, May 19th, 9:05 P. M.—The State Medical Association meets to-morrow. Dr. Duffy, of New Berne, the president, and at least sixty delegates are already here. Drs. Bahrison, Haige and Graham, of the examining board, to-day examined twenty-one applicants; ten more will be examined to-morrow. A.

Drowning Casualty.

CINCINNATI, May 19.—Wm. Morgan, cashier of the St. Nicholas Hotel, and his brother, John Morgan, while rowing a skiff on Licking River yesterday afternoon, were upset and drowned in endeavoring to avoid a passing steamer.

The Presbyterian General Assembly.

SARATOGA, May 19.—At the meeting of the Presbyterian Assembly to-day a communication was received from the Commissioner of the Southern General Assembly, suggesting a co-operation in the efforts to prevent the desecration of the Sabbath, was referred to the committee on bills and overtures.

Presbyterian General Assembly.

SARATOGA, May 19.—After the Presbyterian General Assembly had opened, the Moderator presented the following telegraphic message to be sent to the General Assemblies at Louisville and Memphis, in accordance with the resolution of the Rev. Dr. Prime, adopted Friday: "The General Assembly of the Presbyterian church now in session at Saratoga Springs presents its cordial salutations of the General Assembly in session at Louisville and Memphis, praying for them grace, mercy and peace."

Bismarck on Prussian Affairs.

LONDON, May 19.—A dispatch to the Times from Berlin says Bismarck's parliamentary soiree on Saturday evening was less numerously attended than on previous occasions, the free traders sending but a thin contingent to the deputies from Alsace and Lorraine. The Prince was most affable, conversing with them partly in French and partly in German. The appointment of Gen. Manteuffel as governor of the province, he said, was certain, and a better man for the post could not be found. The Chancellor then dwelt on fiscal matters and the pressing necessity for protecting the agriculturists, especially the petty holders against foreign competition. The duty on beer, he said, must be got through. Referring to the tariff debates, he observed that if any one thought they would wear his patience out by prolonging the discussion, they were very much mistaken. He would remain in Berlin until September, if necessary; but successfully finished the thing must be. Honorable members were clearly not yet acquainted with the tough and dogged perseverance of Prussian officials.

Later on the Prince referred incidentally to the silver sales of the Prussian bank, which he would like to see stopped.

AFGHANISTAN.

The Ameer to Sign a Treaty According With England's Policy---Appearance of Cholera.

SIMLA, May 19.—The vice-regal council has been specially summoned for to-day to consider the draft of the Afghan treaty. The Ameer has agreed to such terms as will secure the chief objects of British policy.

The news from Cashmere is very bad; the increase of urgent distress and famine, joined to the incompetency, corruption and want of organization on the part of the officials, is producing a most serious state of affairs.

The cholera in Peshawur is threatening to raise an obstacle to the prompt withdrawal of the troops from Afghanistan. The disease has appeared in most of the cities of Punjaub, Dacoity.

Robbery by armed gangs are assuming alarming proportions in Deccan, especially in the Poona district. For some time past bands of Dacoites have been scouring the country committing daring attacks on houses and villages. They seem to form part of the regular organization under command of one Wassadee Bulwund, lately a clerk in the financial department. They are suspected of having set the fire which destroyed the government school, Boodwer palace, law courts, post office, police office and fifty houses, at Poona, on the night of the 13th inst.

The Trenchant Blade of the Efficient Swordsman.

Newbernian.

We publish to-day the prospectus of the Raleigh NEWS. This sterling Democratic journal, after eight years' battling with all the difficulties and trials of journalism, we are gratified to learn, is well sustained by the people of the State. The presentable and energetic editors, Messrs. Hussey and Jordan, who are experienced journalists, handle not only "the pen of the ready writer," but the trenchant blade efficient swordsman, as has been shown heretofore by the able and effective articles which they have produced in defence of the Democratic party. They might well adopt the motto, "Cautus et audax," and in our opinion the times need journals which utter no uncertain sound: which cling to Democratic principles without variableness or shadow of turning. We rejoice in so able a coadjutor, and we trust that the Raleigh NEWS will meet with a generous support, and that it will long remain, as it has been in time past, second to no Democratic paper in North Carolina.

A WOMAN TO BE HANGED.

Mrs. Michael, of Cherokee County, is Under Death Sentence for the Murder of James Ross.

Asheville Citizen.

We mentioned a couple of weeks since that a white woman named Mrs. Rachael Michael, had been convicted of murder in Cherokee county, and had been sentenced by Judge Gudger to be hanged on the 13th of June. An appeal, however, has been taken, and the execution of the sentence has been stayed in consequence thereof. We have obtained the following general particulars of the crime with which the woman is charged, and the attendant circumstances under which she was convicted, which will be of interest, as it is but seldom the country is called upon to see a woman sentenced to be hanged.

Mrs. Michael is about 55 years of age, is the wife of Baytie Michael and the sister-in-law of James Ross, the murdered man. Her husband resides about 15 miles from Murphy, the county seat of Cherokee, and the family live some half mile from the house of James Ross. Ross and Baytie Michael married sisters.

One morning in the early part of October last, the deceased, between daybreak and sunrise, went to his field of corn, about midway between his house and Michael's, to see if there were hogs in the field. About an hour by sun, a white boy named Allen Taylor, who lives with the Michaels, went to Ross' house and informed the family that he had found the dead body of Mr. Ross lying in the cornfield. The family at once repaired to the spot and found the tale too true. The unfortunate man was already cold in death, and by his side lay a stout stick, with which, evidently a blow had been inflicted upon the lower left side of the head, dislocating the neck. Soon afterwards Baytie Michael, his wife and a Mrs. Justice—a sister to both Mrs. M. and Mrs. Ross—came up.

The State claimed that the hogs of Michael had been in the habit of getting into the cornfield of the deceased, and from the conduct of the Michaels that day and the next, they were suspicioned of having caused the death of Ross. Baytie Michael, his wife Rachael, and the boy Allen Taylor, were arrested upon the charge of having murdered Ross, and all three were placed on trial upon this charge at the late term of Cherokee Court, Judge Gudger presiding.

The State, after having brought forward all the evidence—the whole being circumstantial—asked that Baytie Michael, the husband, and the boy Taylor be discharged as not guilty; but claimed that the woman Rachael Michael was guilty of the murder.

The defense endeavored to establish an alibi on the part of Rachael Michael, but the jury found her guilty, and the sentence of death was passed upon her.

Victoria's Troubles and Health.

The London Times of the 26th of April says something ominously: "The Queen returns to-day from a holiday in which she has been followed by the warm sympathy of her subjects. It was too easy to understand that she was in need of some special relaxation at the present time. The Queen has been on the throne for forty-two years, and during that long reign has borne the burden of one of the most momentous periods of British history. Had there been nothing else to try the Queen's health than her political cares and duties, they would of late have been more than sufficient to overstrain a nature which has borne the anxieties of so prolonged and eventful a career. But other troubles have of late fallen upon the Queen, which were peculiarly hard to bear amid such grave public difficulties, and which her people are more competent to understand. The death of Princess Alice, both in itself and in its singular circumstances, was a sorrow of unusual bitterness, and it revived the most grievous experience of the Queen's life. The deaths of her grandchildren deepened the gloom in her household; and her thoughts could only turn from anxieties abroad to sorrow at home. It would have been wonderful if, in such circumstances, she had been able to dispense with an interval of thorough change and rest, and it is only to be hoped that it has been long enough and complete enough to afford her a thorough refreshment."

A Philadelphia judge has issued an injunction to restrain the production of a play representing Gen. Grant's tour round the world. And yet Philadelphia has permitted the Black Crook to be produced there. How awfully the Grant crowd must have acted.—Boston Post.

STILL SIGNATURELESS.

THE MUCH TALKED OF SCHOOL BILL AGAIN CONSIDERED.

The Speakers Meet Again on the Old Camp Ground and Re-enact the Old Play.

The action of the two Speakers on the unsigned School Bill has been a source of much remark since the late General Assembly concluded its labors. The public are aware of the fact that Speakers Robinson and Moring came to Raleigh from their homes a few weeks after the adjournment to confer as to whether it was proper to sign the bill and make it a law, or let it go by default. They decided not to sign it and returned home again with a vague idea in the public mind, something about it being and the consequent responsibility. The energetic Superintendent of Public Instruction was not like minded and brought to bear on this point the opinion of the Attorney General, who held that the Speakers should sign. His opinion was published in the NEWS and had a good many citations from leading authorities, and altogether gave general satisfaction. Acting upon advice so authentic, the Superintendent of Public Instruction indited an epistolary correspondence to Messrs. Robinson and Moring and solicited a reconsideration of their action in the matter. A response was had that they would do so and for that purpose would meet in Raleigh about the middle of May.

DANGEROUS TO SET A PRECEDENT,

Mr. Moring was in the city about three weeks since and had a talk with Mr. Scarboro, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and said to him that he had received a letter from Mr. Robinson, and that he would be down about the 15th of May and they would attach their signatures to the Bill. There wasn't a shadow of a doubt about it. Mr. Scarboro might say to Secretary Saunders that he might have the bill printed and incorporated in the Laws of 1879. Mr. Scarboro was satisfied. The Bill was given to the Public Printer and the types set up all ready for the word to print. Things went on about as usual until yesterday, when the two Speakers had met in this city to finally dispose of the matter, that is, to "amicably adjust" the whole thing.

THAT HE WAS GOING TO SIGN THE BILL;

A conference was had in the Supreme Court room, and after looking through several books, they made up their minds, and the decision was that they had BETTER NOT SIGN THE BILL.

A number of publishing houses, as well as the uneducated masses of North Carolina, were interested in the final disposition of this matter, and some of them were even represented by attorneys, and of course the lawyers had to get at bottom facts; so a little social meeting was arranged in the capitol, and the speakers were invited to disburden themselves and let it all out. Mr. Moring frankly said he was in favor of signing the bill at one time, but since he came to Raleigh and got to looking around and he did not now think they ought to sign it. It was a matter that ought to occupy the attention of the Supreme Court, where he wished the responsibility to rest.

HE HAD CHANGED HIS MIND,

Mr. Robinson did not say whether he did or did not wish to sign the bill, but he asked Col. Saunders, the Secretary of State, if his signature alone would make the bill a law or do any good. Col. Saunders promptly said no, whereupon Mr. Robinson said there was no use for him to sign it then.

Mr. Scarboro did not meet Mr. Moring until a later hour. Their meeting was not tender nor was it tough, it was about so so.

Mr. Moring said he understood he (Mr. S.)

WAS MAD WITH HIM.

Mr. Scarboro said he couldn't exactly say he was mad with him, but he was very much disappointed and, really, very nervous about the matter; that Mr. Moring had so positively assured him that he would sign the bill, that he must confess he was not prepared to learn the result without feeling very much upset for the time being, at least.

Mr. Moring alluded to his conscience; that he had changed his mind, and he had a right to do this. Mr. Scarboro was disarmed at once, and, of course, much relieved.

The Speakers left yesterday afternoon, and Mr. Moring sent word to Mr. Scarboro that he could be reached at Durham, if he desired to serve papers on him, and that he would facilitate any writs that might be so served.

Mr. Scarboro is very much exercised about the matter. He wishes to see the "local taxation" provisions in the bill carried out, as it will do much to build up the cause of public education in this State.

Col. Kenan was called on and was so busily engaged finishing up the N. C. Reports that the reporter could not draw him out much. He had given his opinion to Mr. Scarboro; it was published in the NEWS, and he always stood by the record.

It is not known whether further action will be taken or not.

CETYWAYO'S IDEA OF HELL.

A Missionary Sermon and Its Effect---Demolishing the Christian's Hell Fire.

An enterprising reporter of the Uitenhage Times has interviewed a bloodthirsty Zulu, who told the following remarkable and amusing story:

Some years since a missionary went to King Cetywayo's kraal with a view of converting him and his people to Christianity. He stayed there a few days, and the King agreed to hear him on the following Sunday. The Sunday arrived, and the King gathered his people together and also called up two of his finest regiments to hear what message had been brought to him from the white men. The missionary, being told that they were ready to listen to him, rose and delivered an elegant but short sermon, in which he set forth the beautiful of heaven as compared with the torments of the dark regions. He told them that if they lived a good life, did not steal, always spoke the truth, and, above all kept only one wife, they would after death go to the happy hunting grounds, where they would never miss their game, where they would never die, but be forever and ever far happier than they were ever in their happiest moments down here; Whereas on the other hand, if they lived a bad life and did what he had just told them they ought not to do, they would be cast into a tremendous fire, so large that it would scorch up the whole of the Zulu nation, though they were as numerous as locusts, in a few moments. The chief and people paid great attention to all the missionary said, and when he had finished the King asked him to dine with him. He accepted the invitation, but during the dinner noticed the people running about in all directions collecting wood, which they were piling up in one spot. The missionary began to feel queer; he thought it looked ominous; and the Zulu who told the story said he noticed that he did not eat any more, but continued to take large draughts of milk, as if to cool himself. At length the dinner was over; but, before rising, the King turned sharply round to the now affrighted missionary, and said: "What was that you said this morning about putting the great Zulu people in a great fire after they were dead? Come this way, and I will show you what the Zulus are; you don't know them, I can see." He took him to the pile of wood, which had by this time reached tremendous proportions—as big as a Bay store, the Zulu said—and it set fire to all around. When it was properly in a blaze, and gave out so much heat that no one could come near it, the King summoned the two regiments who had listened to the sermon, and ordered them to charge into the burning pile and extinguish it. Naked as they were—without shoes or any covering at all—they rushed into the burning mass like madmen, raving and yelling, and did not stop till hardly a vestige of the fire remained. The King then said to the missionary. "You have seen that. That is what we will do with your hell. The Zulu won't play with your fires, and you had better clear out of this country at once, or I will have a 'little fire' made for you to put out." The missionary took the hint, and left the kraal the same evening. Is it any wonder, ask people, after this, that Gatling guns and rocket batteries have no terror for the Zulu?—and it is certain they have none. The Zulus, when ordered to attack, attack; and though they may be mown down by thousands, still come on, until they conquer or die. It is a tradition among them, which Lord Chelmsford would do well to take into consideration in his future movements in Zululand.

A Rear and Curious Fish.

Wilmington Star, 18th.

We had brought to this office, last night, a very curious specimen of a fish, which was caught on Topsail Sound, by Mr. S. J. Sneeden, yesterday morning. Mr. Sneeden left the fish on exhibition at Huggin's store during the day, where it was viewed by many curious persons, none of whom could designate its variety except one professional gentleman, after consulting the authorities, pronounced it to be what is known as the "hair-tailed mackerel, or scabbard fish," a variety very rarely seen.

The fish looks like a cross between a mackerel and an eel, with a scaleless skin, much like the former. In shape it closely resembles a scabbard, is about two feet and a half long by two inches wide at the broadest part, its body terminating in a flat tail, nearly round at the ends and about six inches long, with a slight growth nearly resembling hair. The head is somewhat similar in shape to a mackerel, with the under part of the mouth protruding in advance of the nose. The mouth is furnished on the sides with rows of fine, sharp teeth, while those in front are long and resemble a squirrel or a rat. Taken altogether, it is a most curious specimen, and warrants, by its rarity, this detailed description.

A New Industry

Wilmington Star.

A new industry and article of export has come to the surface in our commercial world, in the hitherto neglected, despised and apparently worthless pine straw which formerly could not be utilized in any other manner than in making hog's beds, covering Irish potato beds, strawberry beds, etc. Mr. C. Hr Wessell, of this city, acting as agent fo. a factory in New York, is buying and shipping all the pine straw he can get. He shipped eight tons by the last New York steamer, and he informs us that the factory requires about fifty tons per week. It is said that at the factory where it is consumed it first undergoes a sweating process, by which an article of spirits is obtained which is used for medical purposes, and that it is then manufactured into paper and also into an article for stuffing mattresses. Quite a number of the colored population are now engaged in baling the straw and bringing it to this city for the purpose above mentioned.

The Ohio Canvass and the Presidency

Wash. Corr. Richmond Dispatch, 17th.

The feeling now is strong that Mr. Thurman will be forced to run as a candidate for Governor of Ohio, and a remark in his speech yesterday is construed to-night as indicating that he thinks so himself. If he does, John Sherman, as I have all along predicted, will be the opposing candidate, and then the skirmish to the great Presidential battle will be fought on the soil of the Buckeye State. While I believe that Grant will certainly be the Republican candidate, I cannot shut my eyes to the fact that Sherman is daily gaining strength, and that he evidently means business. One of his friends remarked at the Capitol to-day: "Why cannot the two great parties have the high courage to nominate Sherman and Bayard and make the fight on a square, dignified issue?"

A Planter's Mishap.

Danville (Va.) News, 17th.

Yesterday immediately after the rain storm, a clever and popular planter from Alamance county, N. C., left the city to return home, driving his wagon loaded with guano. On reaching Pumpkin creek on the Yanceyville road, he found it considerably swollen, but drove into the ford without a thought of danger. The water overwhelmed his wagon, breaking down the hind part of it and washing away his entire load of guano. He came near drowning himself and with difficulty saved his horse.

All He Has to Do.

Franklin Times.

But if Ohio and the West should not support the Democracy, Mr. Thurman does not stand the ghost of a chance. On the other hand all Mr. Tilden has to do is to carry New York with a good majority to make him the leading man in the field.

A Good Time for a Collection.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Just about this time would it not be well for the Republicans to take up a collection among themselves and pay back to the Southern negroes the millions they stole from them through the decoy Freedman's Bank?

Watch.

E. City Falcon.

Certainly we live in the age of deception and fraud. When the affairs of a country are not wholly in the hands of honest and patriotic men, but are presided over by the creature of an unprincipled set of politicians then truly may we say watch.

"Not Below the Best."

Pee Dee Bee.

We note with pleasure the steady improvement of that sterling daily newspaper, the Raleigh NEWS. It is seeking a place in journalism not below the best. Abundant success, brother Hussey!

MILITARY AGRICULTURE.

MR. BENBOW'S EXCULPATION OF COL. POLK.

One of the Fathers of the Scheme Announces Himself in Plain Language.

Correspondence of the News.

GREENSBORO, May 19.—Having just returned home from Fayetteville, I hasten to reply to an article in your paper of the 15th, charging Col. L. L. Polk and the Board of Agriculture with the circular which I wrote, had printed and circulated. J. W. Albright, of this place, directed the envelopes for me, and to names that we jointly thought representative men, regardless of their politics; and I assure the writer of that article that neither Col. Polk or any member of the Board of Agriculture had any intimation of my intention. After getting up the circular I consulted with Mr. Albright, had it printed and at my own expense here, sent it out to more than one hundred addresses; and further, I assure the writer of that article that I am no Democrat, and never voted a straight Democratic ticket in my life, hence I deny any charge of a political nature in it.

I was then, and am now fully satisfied that a cheap way of reaching the farmers of North Carolina would do more good to that class of our citizens, for whom there has been so little legislating, so little protection; and from whom there has been so much tax collected. It was for their benefit that this Department was established. Now, how can the masses be benefited by the vast amount of information collected by their commissioner? How can Dr. Ledoux tell the farmers of North Carolina (a large portion of whom do not take a paper) the many formulas for improving their crops without some means of communication? Why has Prof. Kerr's vast fund of information and learning been of so little good to the farmers of our State? Simply because he did not have a means similar to the plan proposed in my circular. Ten thousand papers half the size of your daily can be sent to as many farmers in the State by this Department every week, for the small sum of $2,000 per year; and notwithstanding the political twist your correspondent tried to give the matter, which Col. Polk seemed to have apprehended, as shown by his card of the 16th, I still insist that the Department could not do more good for the farming interests of our good old State than by placing themselves in direct communication with at least ten farmers at every postoffice in the State, at an expense to the Department of twenty cents each for a whole year—not a political paper, but an agricultural paper through which all the statistics, formulas and geological information may be dealt to the people in small doses, suited to their needs. That is just what I wanted, and agreeable to Col. Polk's statement was indorsed by many who signed my circulars and forwarded them to him, and which I regret he failed to present to his Board as he says he did.

There were no political views intimated; I did not care who published it, and advised that they be advertised for the lowest bid, taking a bond for the faithful conduct of a strictly proper paper, etc.

I am alone responsible for the issue of that circular, and here thank you for its publication in your issue of the 15th, and would ask you to again annex it here, if it was not for the expense you would incur thereby.

Respectfully,
D. W. C. BENBOW.

STATE NEWS.

Warren.

Warrenton Gazette.

Capt. T. L. White, an aged and much esteemed citizen of Ridgeway, dropped dead last Friday evening. It is supposed he had heart disease.

Col. Cheek, master of the State Grange, made an excellent speech at Warrenton last Tuesday evening.

The Old North State Co. has the front windows of its office handsomely ornamented. Dr. Bellamy was the artist.

The Inferior Court adjourned last Tuesday. The presiding officers determined to hold one more term, which will be on the 2d Monday in August next.

Before the war, Warren was the largest tobacco growing county in the State; and it may become so again. No county in the State, excels it in fertility of soil and few are its equals. In 1860 the value of the real estate of Warren exceeded that of Wake, although the latter has twice the area of this county, and contains the seat of Government of the State.

Warren News.

Our fruit growers commenced on the 9th to ship strawberries, and will continue daily shipments until the crop is disposed of. Owing to the late frost the strawberry crop at Ridgeway is short, but that enhances their value, and they are now selling for very remunerative prices, which will encourage our growers to continue, and extend their efforts in that direction.

There seems to be much better prospect for a peach crop than many concluded early in the season, and the peaches seem to be remarkably free from injury by insects.

Squire J. W. Riggan informs us that a colored boy, who lives with him, Willis Johnston by name, fourteen years old, was bitten by a hound puppy on the 3d of April last. About two o'clock, the next afternoon about six o'clock, the boy was taken with a spasm or fit, and that he has had from three to five of them every day since. At times, while the fit is on him, he snaps and bites like a dog, frequently whining and smelling around audibly as a dog does, who is hunting for something, or as the Squire expresses it "the noise that a dog makes when snuffling in a mole's track." Willis is perfectly rational between times, has always been healthy and strong, and it is thought that simple fright at the attack made by the dogs is the cause of his present condition.

Lincoln.

Lincolnton Progress.

The delightful rain with which we have been visited this week was warmly welcomed by all. Its refreshing influence is always felt. We are told that the crops throughout the county generally are looking well. The healthful faces of those of our farmers who have visited town this week are beaming with the prospect of an abundant harvest.

A negro man was one day this week committed by Robert S. Reinhardt, Esq., to jail, charged with the horrible crime of rape. The name of the man is Adlas Gilliam, the girl is a daughter of Larkin Boyd, colored. It is a fearful thought, but it seems to be true, that this crime is becoming more and more prevalent.

Among the many hotly contested battles of the revolutionary war, that of Ramsour's Mill was not the least prominent. The scene of that battle is not a half mile from town, and the remains of the old mill are still visible. Lincolnton claims, therefore, that in the Centennial celebrations she should not be forgotten. The Centennial anniversary of this battle will be next year. Can we not have it properly celebrated?

We are told that there has been, and is considerable excitement throughout the central and western portions of the county about mad-dogs. Several have been killed within the last ten days in which the evidences of hydrophobia were complete. Many others have been killed which showed evident signs of being mad—one or two in town. We hear that in one neighborhood near here, about twenty were killed on Thursday of this week.

Burke.

Morganton Blade.

John Rutherford, of Bridgewater, the oldest citizen in Burke county, is, we are glad to learn from a lady friend who visited him recently, in fair health for one of his extreme age—about 90 years—and his mind as "clear as a bell." It is a melancholy fact that we are raising no such men now-a-days.

The general impression is that the prospect for a good yield of wheat this crop, is fair; but the fruit is cut short, even in that favored region, the South Mountains, where it never fails.

The dwelling-house of Mr. W. W. Parks, of Lower Creek, in this county, was entirely consumed by fire on the night of the 12th inst. The family were asleep, and awoke barely in time to make their escape from the burning building.

The Rev. P. F. W. Stamey on Sunday night, May 4th, closed a very interesting meeting of nine days' continuance at "Dry Ponds," on Morganton circuit. The revival swept all over the community. Persons were converted from the age of 12 years up to 80. Fifty-one persons joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the majority were heads of families.

Wheat has suddenly become scarce and high in this market—worth $1.25 for good white. And corn, thanks to the blockaders, perhaps, is "up in the pictures," too. Won't go to 75 cents. This, however, is a local demand. It cannot be shipped at any such figures.

Craven.

Newberne Nutshell.

On Friday night there seemed to be a decided increase of interest in the revival meetings now being held in the New street Methodist church.

We learn there is a plan on foot to organize in Newberne a Young Men's Christian Association. It is thought representative young men from all the churches will take part in the organization of the association, and much good will no doubt be accomplished under its auspices.

The walking match to come off on Thursday next, at the rink, corner Middle and Broad streets, promises to be most successful and interesting of any heretofore had. It is proposed to have the regular track and the inside track in use at the same time. On the regular track a fifty mile race will be in progress, while on the other track a ten mile heat will engage the attention of a large number of contestants.

The mica mine on Nantahala mountain, recently sold by Dr. Lyle to Lyn & Co., of Philadelphia, is proving very satisfactory. Only a week or two's work by a few hands has been done, and last Saturday about one hundred dollars' worth was taken out.

Our mineral business is being rather vigorously pushed now. Dr. Lucas has forty tons of corundum ready for shipment.

Mr. Meninger started a party of hands to the Buck Creek Corundum mines yesterday. We hope to hear of tons of this valuable mineral being shipped from this new mine in a short time.

An old lady, 84 years old, was in town on Thursday of last week, who had never seen a town before, and had not even the faintest idea of a railroad. Her name is Abigail Eltheridge, and she was raised and had passed her four score summers in Westbrook township, Sampson county, and had never been more than sixteen miles from her home.

The eagle caught a few weeks ago by Mr. Barfield, near Mount Olive is now the property of the Messenger. He is a voracious bird. A well-grown rabbit makes just a good meal for his eagleship.

The aim of the proprietor of the "St. Nicholas" hotel has always been to make this great New York institution the model house of the land, where all the comforts and elegancies of home should be presented on the most complete scale. The verdict of the traveling public has sustained this ambition, and both single guests and families find in cuisine, apartments and general convenience, the very acme of all that is desirable. An elevator makes all parts of the hotel accessible, and the closest attention is given to the wants of guests. Prices have been reduced to a figure very moderate, measured by the superb accommodations given.

THE MIGRATORY NEGRO.

DYING LIKE SHEEP AT WYANDOTTE.

Stories Told by the Returning Refugees of Their Sufferings in Kansas.

Pathetic stories were told at St. Louis on Tuesday by the ninety negroes who came down the Missouri en route for the home they had so lately left in Mississippi. A reporter of one of the St. Louis papers visited the James Howard, the steamboat on which the refugees had embarked, and there found a lot of them grouped upon the lower deck awaiting impatiently the hour of the boat's departure, and talking eagerly of the good times in store 'or them upon a return to old friends and old scenes. A venerable old man, seated upon a lot of furniture, was questioned as to the causes which led him and those with him to return to the region they had so lately left. The old man, speaking for himself and those about him, told an affecting story:

"Wese, done comed back," said he, "coz ef we'd staid we'd all die, shuah. Dar is de people at Wyandotte, lyin' along de banks an' dyin' like sheep. De climate is somethin' dey ain't used to, an' dey gets plexrisy an' pneumonia, an' den dey dies. More'n two hundred has been buried already, an' dere wuz lots moah sick when we left 'em. Dey begged, some of 'em, to come with us, but dat couldn't be, and so dey stays dar ter die."

"How did you get passage on the boat?" was asked.

"Oh, some one paid de fares for us. I don't jes understand how the thing wuz fixed."

The old darkey was asked as to what he thought the reception of the refugees would be upon their return South, and answered that he thought it would be kind. They had been told that the white folks would not receive them well, but he knew better. Anyhow, they would be better off than staying in Kansas.

It appeared that most of the refugees on the Howard were from points near Davis' bend, not far from Vicksburg, and as they were all returning to the same locality, they all had the same reception to look forward to. Not one of them appeared to have apprehensions, and there was not one of them but seemed overjoyed at an escape from the miseries suffered at Wyandotte and other Kansas towns. On the levee one of the refugees, an intelligent young man, was holding forth at some length to a group of late arrivals from the South, who were waiting in St. Louis for a chance to continue their journey westward. His remarks were not likely to be misconstrued:

"We went out there," said he, "with some money, and they told us that with a little start we could get along well. They said there was plenty of good land and that we could have it to work. Well, most of us didn't get as far as that land, but some of us did, and just to see was enough. There was nothing but flat prairie alongside the railroad, no trees, no houses, no nothing. If you had a house there you wouldn't have anything to live on, and if you could raise any crops it would take you six weeks to go to mill. It was just starve, that was all there was of it, and we got back to Wyandotte as quick as we could."

"Why didn't you buy a place near one of the towns, if you had money?"

"Some of you had money, you said. What did you do with it?"

The man who had been in Kansas answered the last question very curtly:

"We had to eat it up."

Accomplishments of Western Mules.

Two miners were seated on a bowlder alongside the road to Sutro, says the Virginia City Chronicle, discussing the kicking powers of the mules. One had just returned from Sutro and the other was on the way there, and having met near the rock they sat down for a talk.

"Have you quit over there?" said the one who was eastward bound.

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Mules."

"'Fraid of 'em?"

"You bet. I saw one yesterday alongside an old boiler kickin' off the rivet heads one by one. Never missed one, I was just going on shift, and when I saw the mule and heard there was more of 'em inside, I threw up my job. I've got a wife and three children depending on me, and I don't take no chances."

"The worst mule I ever saw," said the other, "was in Pioche some years ago. It was one I owned. One day it rubbed against some nails sticking out of a post, and it turned round and drove those nails one by one, using a single blow of the hoof, with the iron shoe on, for each nail. It never missed its kick, and always drove 'em just into the head. Then it saw a few tacks on a post a little lower down, which were only half driven in, and it drove them in, too, with light taps of the hoof, just as gentle and easy as could be. One day a man came along and set out a can of nitro glycerine and giant powder. He wanted to get the mule to kick it and get killed. I saw him about the corral with the can, and knew what was up. At first I was going to stop him, but then I thought if my mule was any sort of a mule at all he could take care of himself. So I just watched. Well, the mule saw the can, and walking up, smelt of it, and then squared himself for the kick. The man was sneaking off, and just as the mule was going to kick the can, he caught sight of the fellow and changed his position so that his tail was toward the man. He let fly his right hoof. The can went flying through the air and hit the man square between the shoulders just as he was gittin' over a fence about a hundred feet away. The thing exploded, and I never saw the man again. But next morning Pat Holland came out in the Record and said that the town had been visited by a shower of blood."

The general co-operative stores in London have proved to be so useful and remunerative that the establishment of special stores on similar principles is contemplated. A "Millinery and Dress Association" has been formed, with a large shop in London and a branch in Paris. Ladies who belong to it will not only be able to get at the lowest possible prices the very latest fashions in dress—they will also have a share in the profits of the establishment. The purchase of even a single share in the association gives participation in the shop's profits and the privilege of dealing at it.

DAILY NEWS

TUESDAY, - - - - - MAY 20, 1879.

HUSSEY & JORDAN, PROPRIETORS

JOHN R. HUSSEY, - - Editor.

A BILL has been reported to the House, and will be called up for action at an early day, repealing all laws or parts of laws now in force levying and assessing a tax upon tobacco in the hands of the producers. The second section of the bill provides: That no farmer or planter shall be required to pay a special tax as a dealer in leaf tobacco for selling tobacco of his own production or tobacco received by him as rent from tenants who have produced the same on his lands, and they may sell the same to persons other than those who have paid a special tax as leaf dealers or manufacturers of tobacco, snuff or cigars, or to persons purchasing leaf tobacco for export.

MR. THURMAN discussed the legislative bill in the Senate Thursday. His speeches never come up to our expectations, because, perhaps, our expectations are too great. Mr. Thurman with all his great resources has added nothing new to the discussion. He is credited with originating the Democratic policy which called the extra session of Congress and which has shaped its action in the pending legislation. In the course of his remarks he asserted that the movement for the repeal of the election laws originated with Northern Representatives and Senators. In 1876 one-half of all the Federal supervisors appointed were in New York, and of the elections marshals one-quarter were in New York. For the Federal election expenses $285,000 were spent in the North and only $48,000 in the Southern States. One hundred and fifty-six thousand dollars were spent in New York city and $37,000 in Philadelphia to "equip the thieves and rascals" who were to carry the election for the Republicans. In 1878, he said, of 3,635 Federal supervisors only 1,200 were in the South, and of 4,725 elections marshals 3,500 were in Northern cities. He gave these figures to show that these laws had been passed, not to protect the poor negro, as had been pretended, but to control and coerce the votes of Northern cities, where Democratic majorities were to be overcome by such lawless measures as those of Davenport, and now, when the people were awake to these wrongs, it was proposed to use the troops at the polls to coerce and intimidate the voters, and support the Federal marshals and supervisors in their lawless and irresponsible acts.

Mr. Thurman indulged in some very plain talk, considering his prominent candidacy for the Presidential nomination. We may advert to his speech again.

EX-GOV. MONTFORD STOKES.

A NEWS correspondent has unwittingly done the memory of this distinguished son of North Carolina injustice. Col. W. H. Cowles, of Wilkesboro, in a letter published in the Statesville Landmark corrects the error into which our correspondent has fallen: "The NEWS correspondent states," says Col. Cowles, "that ex-Gov. Stokes left this country to avoid imprisonment for debt. This is a mistake, and the allegation is not sustained by either history or tradition. While serving as Clerk of the Senate of North Carolina he was elected United States Senator; and strange as it may appear at this day, he declined the position. In 1816 he was again elected United States Senator, and served until 1823. In 1830 he was elected Governor of North Carolina, and in 1831 he was appointed by President Jackson (whose personal friendship he enjoyed) Indian Agent in Arkansas and it was to fill this position that he left his beloved State. He died while in the faithful discharge of the duties and responsibilities of this office. A man of literary culture as well as great natural ability, in these high positions to which he was called, as well as in many lesser offices, he served his country faithfully and well; and North Carolina may well be proud of his position in her wreath of historic names."

ANOTHER VIEW OF THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

We have heretofore undertaken to show that in the Presidential election in 1880, the prospects of the Democrats to elect their candidate were good, and better than any other party. But as we cannot know the future, and as it may come to pass that no one will be chosen President by the election of the people, we are led to inquire what would be the chances of the Democrats, if, as is required by the Constitution in such an event, the choice of a President devolved upon the House of Representatives. We have 38 States in the Union, and as each State would in such an event be entitled to one vote and no more, it would require 20 votes or 20 States to elect. As it now stands, the Democrats have 19 of these States and would be able to cast 19 votes, and the Republicans have 18 States and would be able to cast 18 votes. California, has not yet elected her Representatives to the 46th Congress, and it is very uncertain what will be the political complexion of her Representatives. In the 44th Congress she had 3 Democrats and one Republican in the House, and the delegation was equally divided in the 45th Congress. Her recent election on the ratification of the new constitution seemed to indicate that the "people's party" were largely in the ascendency. So we are compelled to put that State down as extremely doubtful. One thing however is certain, if California should elect a majority of Republicans to the 46th Congress, it would not enable that party to select the President, it would then have only 19 States or votes, the number the Democrats now have. On the other hand, should the "people's party" or "Nationals" as they are generally denominated (who seem now to have the best chance), elect a majority of the members to the 46th Congress, there can be but little doubt that in a contest to be decided in the House, California would vote with the Democrats, and a Democratic President would be chosen. This calculation however, is made upon the present Democratic representation in the House.

Contingencies might happen which would destroy the success of the Democrats though they secured the vote of California. It is imperative on the Democrats in Congress, and especially in the House, to look seriously at these questions, and as far as law and good conscience will permit hold fast to the faith and strength they now have. Let us then look briefly at the chances of Democratic defeat.

The State of Florida, if the election goes to the House, will cast as large a vote as New York, each, one vote. But the seat of Mr. Hull a Representative from Florida is contested by Bisby, Republican. Florida has but two Representatives. So that if Hull is turned out, and Bisby seated, the vote of Florida would be lost to the Democrats. We do not intimate that Mr. Hull should hold the seat if not elected, but we caution Democratic Representatives in Congress not to be liberal beyond the record and the facts, to impute fraud to Democrats in favor of a gang of thieves and plunderers, who by force of fraud have for years filled our offices, and bankrupted our States.

Notwithstanding these and other contingencies that might arise, we conclude nevertheless that, in the event of the election being thrown into the House, the Democratic party has the best chance of electing the President. It is certain that if the election goes to the House the Republicans cannot elect.

THE Virginia miscegenation case, wherein Ed. Kinney, colored, and Martha Hall, white, left that Commonwealth and went to Washington, D. C., for the express purpose of marriage, and then returned to Hanover county, is attracting more or less attention throughout the country. After their return they were arrested, tried and convicted on a charge of violating the State law prohibiting mixed marriages, and were sentenced to five years' penal servitude. Since their conviction their friends have been busy endeavoring to procure their release, and but a few days since made application for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that a State had no constitutional right to enact legal disabilities regarding marriages on account of color; but Judge Hughes, of the United States District Court, held that the laws governing marriages were vested solely in the respective States, and that the law to prohibit mixed marriages was within the unrestrained legislative power of Virginia to enact, and the Federal Courts could not interfere; therefore the issuance of the writ was denied. The soundness of this decision has been questioned in various quarters, and an appeal is to be taken to the United States Supreme Court, the appellants claiming that a marriage contracted in one State should be held valid in another. Of course, the color question is at the bottom of it and gives the case its extraordinary publicity; but, we believe, this is the first instance wherein the right of a State to regulate the marriages of its inhabitants has been questioned. Numerous cases in proof of this might be cited, but one is sufficient. Some three or four years since James Parton, the author and biographer, went from Massachusetts to New York and married his step-daughter. Such a marriage was valid in the latter State but it was in contravention of the Massachusetts marriage laws, which he had unknowingly violated. No criminal action was entered against him, but the marriage was annulled by a legislative enactment. This would seem to confirm the soundness of Judge Hughes' decision.

LIVER

HEPATINE.

This important organ weighs but about three pounds, and all the blood in a living person about three gallons, passes through it at least once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities strained or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased, and Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Sick and Sour Stomach, and general debility follow. MERRELL'S HEPATINE, the great vegetable discovery for torpid Liver, causes the Liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few doses upon yellow complexion or a brown dirty looking skin, will astonish all who try it—they being the first symptoms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain by taking HEPATINE in accordance with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given.

NOW READY FOR DELIVERY!

The Digest of Cited Cases

IN THE

North Carolina Reports.

By Hon. A. W. Tourgee.

We are happy to announce to the legal profession that this valuable work is now ready for delivery to subscribers. The labor of preparation and the necessity of securing the utmost possible accuracy in the immense number of citations, has necessarily delayed the work, but the result cannot but be satisfactory to every practioner. It contains every case in the Reports of the State which has been cited by the court, the cases in which cited, whether with approval or disapproval, with a careful digest of the point of citation, with a full and accurate index to the subject matter of each. In form, matter, completeness and style of publication, it is undoubtedly the best law book ever published in the State containing 750 large double-column pages, 5,162 cited cases and about 30,000 citations.

It will be mailed to subscribers on receipt of the price $12 with 25 cents for postage, or sent by Express C. O. D. when there is an office convenient. Persons desiring to have the work should order at once, as the edition is a limited one.

Talbott's Patent Spark Arrester,

THE INVENTION OF THE AGE.

Talbott's new Patent Spark Arrester is really the only perfect and reliable one, and is superseding all others in use. The great efficiency of this Arrester is attracting universal attention, and is being endorsed by the best mechanical engineers and insurance companies. Its prominent features are:

It does not destroy the draft.

It does not interfere with cleaning the tubes.

It will not choke up, and requires no cleaning.

It requires no direct dampers to be opened when raising steam (dampers being objectionable, as they may be left open and allow sparks to escape.)

It requires no water to extinguish sparks, which, by condensation, destroys the draft. Besides, when water is used, if neglected, the efficiency is destroyed by evaporation of the water, and the boiler is kept in a filthy condition.

It is simple and durable, and can be relied upon.

It can be attached to any boiler.

No planter should be without one of them. Insurance companies will insure gins and barns where the Talbott Engines and Spark Arresters are used at same rate as charged for water or horse-power.

Send for illustrated circulars and price list.

GRAND

Hotel Property

In Richmond, Va., with Furniture, Fixtures, Horses, Omnibuses, and everything Complete for the Business, Fronting Capitol street and Capitol Square, on Ninth street, The Loveliest spot in the South.

For Sale at Public Auction

By request of Messrs. Hunter & Pendleton, owners of the "St. Claire Hotel," located on the northwest corner of Grace and Ninth Streets, and now doing a large and rapidly increasing business, with a reputation equal to any Hotel in Richmond, I shall sell by public auction, upon the premises, on THURSDAY, THE 29TH DAY OF MAY, 1879, AT 12 O'CLOCK, M.,

the Hotel as above described, with a front on Grace street of 88 3-12 feet and on Ninth street 183 4-12 feet with a depth of 120 feet on its north line, and a width on its rear of 73 3-12 feet. The Hotel is a partly four stories and partly three stories above basement. Contains sixty-three rooms. The Frame Dwelling adjoining, and fronting on Ninth street, which included in the sale, contains seven rooms, kitchen, laundry, servants' apartments, stable, carriage-house, &c., &c., situated in the geographical centre of the city, in front of the State Capitol Square, with an elevation insuring healthful air and fine views of the surrounding country. This is justly considered the

Most Desirable Position for a Hotel

in Richmond, located as it is on one of the great thoroughfares of the city, where street cars are passing every few minutes, and within a few squares of the post office, custom-house and all public places, and yet withal, in a quiet and delightful locality, where property is steadily and continually improving in value. The sale of this property should commend itself to men of capital, and to hotel at large, who may desire now to secure permanently the location the best and most desirable of all others for that business in Richmond and in the entire South.

The Furniture is comparatively new, and is of good modern style—such as is usually found in a first-class hotel.

The fixtures, &c., required for the Hotel business will be included in sale—such as China-ware, &c., &c.

The owners have concluded to sell positively on the day named. Parties may attend expecting to see the sale made on the day named. The terms will be made exceedingly liberal, and will be announced fully od day and hour of sale.

ROBT. B. LYNE, Auctioneer.

N. B.—This advertisement will not in any way interfere with the business of the hotel, and our friends and patrons will be made as comfortable and taken as good care of as heretofore. HUNTER & PENDLETON,
Proprietors of St. Claire Hotel.

GOOD MORNING!

NEW GOODS

AT

A. CREECH'S.

CUSTOMERS, THIS ADVERTISEMENT is for your interest, so read carefully. I have received my stock of Spring Goods for 1879, and it affords me pleasure to say to you that every DEPARTMENT is full and complete, with New Goods, from Coarse to Fine Fancies, bought by myself in person from the Importers and Manufacturers by the package.

And here allow me to say that integrity is the vital spark of commercial life, and brains, the big cog-wheel that runs the tireless Engine, and Cash is that earnest and solid stuff that will buy good cheap, and still in the Brains of the smartest merchants, there lurks a puzzle as to what goods will get to be, a pan or bottom prices.

But I think every merchant of experience will coinside with me in saying that goods have not been sold within the last twenty-five years so low as they are this Spring, and I feel confident in saying Goods, Wares and Merchandise have reached their bottom prices.

As many of them advanced and are still advancing, and it will only take a little money and financial skill to save money by buying goods before they further advance.

And in connection with this, let me say that you see all kinds of advertisments, some selling at cost and below, and some say the bottom's out, and goods at hard-pan prices and various other kinds. But let me tell you,

That I suppose at least a thousand persons at this writing will know that is the place, and I expect to tell ten thousand more within the next forty-eight hours to come to

CREECH'S

Creech's to Buy their GOODS

as I want customers wherever to be found, and buyers with money to spare, so when you come to town, down town or up town, come to

DAILY NEWS

TUESDAY, - - - - - - - MAY 20, 1879.

The Old Whig Element in Congress.

The declaration made by Senator Hill in his great speech of last week, that out of the twelve Georgia members, eight, down to the date of the secession of their States, were open and avowed Union men and active and energetic opponents of the secession movement, together with his much broader declaration, that out of the ninety-three members of Congress from the Southern States, eighty-five, or nine-tenths were prominent opponents of the doctrine of secession, has created a great deal of comment. It was one of the few additions made to our stock of political knowledge during the course of the Senate debate. The Post has taken the pains to interview a large number of members and has found that of the majority of Democratic members in the Senate that a very decided proportion, instead of being, as was charged by Senator Blaine in his recent speech, "disciples of Calhoun and Breckinridge," were members of the Whig party and in active affiliation with that party down to the nomination and defeat of Bell and Everett in 1860, and were far removed from political sympathies with either Calhoun, as a teacher, or Breckinridge, as a leader. Senator Vest, of Missouri, was originally a Whig. He joined the Democratic party in 1856, and up to the time when hostilities were inevitable was an opponent of secession. Senator Whyte, of Maryland, was a strong Union man and remained such during the war, neither believing in secession or the necessity of war. Senator Cockrell, of Missouri was a Democrat, and in the contest between Breckinridge and Douglas sided with Breckinridge. He was an advocate of the Union, however, and a strong opponent of secession until the conflict was unavoidable. He then joined the Southern cause and fought bravely till its close. Senator Houston, of Alabama, was stoutly opposed to secession. Senator Hereford, of West Virginia, though a Democrat, was a Union man during the war, and a resident of Colorado for the greater part of the time. Senator Jones, of Florida, was a pronounced Union man down to the very last hour. Senator Withers, of Virginia, who was originally a Whig, opposed secession with great vigor. Senator Vance's record as a staunch Union man until the bloody issues were joined is almost as well known as any other fact in the history of the struggle. His colleague, Senator Ransom, was fully as ardent in his opposition to secession. Both were originally Whigs. Senator Hill, of Georgia, has spoken for himself. He was elected to the convention that passed the ordinance of secession, as a pronounced Union man, and was an earnest opponent of the State's declaration of independence. Senators Maxey and Coke, of Texas, were both old Line Whigs, and while Senator Maxey fought bravely through the war with his State, he was opposed to secession until it was inevitable. Senator Jonas, of Louisiana, was one of the most pronounced Union men in New Orleans. He not only opposed the convention, but voted against the ordinance of secession. He, too, was formerly a Whig. Both of the Arkansas Senators, Messrs. Garland and Walker, were originally Whigs and anti-secessionists, and they simply went with their State, and endeavored, after she had cast her lot with the Confederacy, to give her their best services. Senators Beck and Williams, of Kentucky, were outspoken in their opposition to secession, and never became reconciled to the Southern cause until neutral Kentucky was as severely punished for remaining out of the Union army, as she could have been had she joined the secessionists in the beginning. Senator Bailey, of Tennessee, was also an anti-secessionist; so, too, was Senator Groome, of Maryland; Senator Farley, of California, and Senator H. G. Davis, of West Virginia. Senator Gordon, of Georgia, and Governor Hampton were both Democrats, and their efforts to avert the war are a part of the history of that great struggle. They believed it to be unnecessary, and have always insisted that if the moderate men of both sections could have been brought together they could easily have prevented the extremists of both sections from plunging us into the terrible strife which finally swept into its vortex almost every man North and South, no matter how conservative in his views. Senator Lamar was a Whig before the war, and belonged to a school not at all friendly to either Calhoun or Breckenridge. Senator Eaton was a Union Democrat opposed to the war, and positive on all occasions in his utterances that it was as wicked as it was unnecessary. But we do not need to present the record of the Northern Democrats. It is the Southern Senators of whom Mr. Hill spoke.

In the House it is more difficult to arrive at reliable data. But, from a number of interviews, it is evident that Mr. Hill had carefully investigated the facts before making his statement. Such men as Goode, of Virginia, and Casey Young, of Tennessee, were straight out Unionists up to the failure of the peace conference. Messrs. Davis, Steele, Vance and Scales of the North Carolina delegation were all Unionists. Armfield was an old Whig and Union man. The first gun at Fort Sumter hurried young Kitchin from the classic shades of Emery and Henry to the front. He was not a secessionist, but was one of the best fighters in the Southern army.

The Post's researches furnishes food for reflection.

TUTT'S PILLS IMPART APPETITE.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. Rev. Dr. Mangum, Prof. Univ. of N. C.
I concur with Bishop Doggett in his estimate of the Vest Pocket Cure.

Rev. Drs Jeter, Broaddus, Dickinson, (Bap.)
It is endorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who underwrite this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness joined with the experimental use and approval of the preparation by well-known physicians, removes all doubt. It is beyond question, a wonderful therapeutical agent.—Editors Religious Herald, Va.

Chaplain Randolph Macon College, Va.
Many cases of Dyspepsia within my knowledge have been cured by it. Cramps, Colics, Headaches, and all sorts of pains from indigestion yield promptly to it. The cures of this sort are innumerable.

Rev. R. L. Dabney, L. L. Col., Va.
It is highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people. It is excellent for indigestion and flatulent Colic, sedative, soporific, tonic, slightly apercent, without nausea.

Rev. B. F. Woodward, P. E., Va. Conf.
About twelve years I suffered from Dyspepsia. Falling in with this remedy, I gave it a fair trial. After its use I could eat anything with impunity. I am sure I am indebted to this medicine for what of health and physical comfort I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use.

Rev. Robert W. watts, A. M., Va.
I have used the mixture in my family for years, and have taken it for a Dyspepsia Colic, which threatened my life, and was cured, eating any diet without hurt. I have recommended it to other sufferers with happiest results. It is the best tonic and corrective I ever knew. For protration from Dyspepsia or Liver Disease it is invaluable.

J. D. Eggleston, M. D., Va.
It is a highly valuable remedy, and is more extensively used than any single article in the whole list of medicines, so far as I observed in my practice, for all the complaints in families from indigestion, I use it and recommend it.

Editor Richmond Christian Advocate.
This remedy is of tried virtue. I have seen Dyspepsia cured completely by it. It seems to be an anti-tote to our "National Disease." The ingredients are not kept by the apothecaries, and have been difficult to get.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

——The magistrates of Wake county met at the court house to-day at noon.

——Governor Jarvis and staff left yesterday for Charlotte to attend the 20th of May celebration in that city to-day.

——The view up Hillsboro street from the Western portico of the Capitol is beautiful—a regular avenue of bending oaks.

——Newbold & Sons, Baltimore, and Milnor Cochran & Co., Baltimore, paid the State Treasurer $100 each for drummer's license.

——The address of Mr. R. T. Gray at the Fayetteville Memorial is most highly spoken of. A sketch of the same will appear in to-morrow's NEWS.

——The thermometer yesterday at Branson's book store:

At 9 a. m.	- - - - -	70.
" 12 m.	- - - - -	71.
" 3 p. m.	- - - - -	73.
" 6 p. m.	- - - - -	72.

——A special term of Superior Court for Randolph county, at Asheboro, has been ordered by the Governor to be held on the 2d Monday, July 14th next. The presiding judge is not yet appointed.

——Yesterday the North Carolina Life Insurance Company paid Mrs. David M. Carter $2,500, the amount of insurance held by that company on the life of her late husband, Col. D. M. Carter.

——The sanitary commissioner, Mr. Goodwin, states that the filth that has accumulated in the city during the late rains is becoming offensive, and requests that citizens pay attention to the matter as far as their respective premises are concerned.

——A prominent marriage will occur in this city Thursday morning. This is really opportune. The ladies were getting so melancholy. It is very necessary to revive the ladies now and then, and nothing acts so well on their spirits as a fashionable marriage.

——The members of the Swift-foot base ball club are requested to meet at the mayor's office Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock, to complete the reorganization of the old club. It is earnestly requested that all of the old members of the same be present.

——A requisition yesterday from the Governor of Georgia on the Governor of North Carolina for a fugitive from justice in this State was granted and a mandate for the arrest and delivery of the parties, and in return Governor Jarvis made a similar requisition on the Governor of Georgia.

——All those desirous of joining in the opening game of base ball for the season are requested to meet at the Baptist grove to-morrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. It is proposed to organize a club, and will afford a good chance for lovers of the national game to engage for the season.

——The Scottish Commercial Insurance Company, of Glasgow, Scotland, the Western Assurance Company, of Toronto, Canada, and the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., deposited $10,000 each in United States 4 per cents with the State Treasurer, and will continue to carry on business in this State.

——David Taylor, white, and Adolphus Williams, colored, had a little "scrimmage" yesterday on Wilmington street, the weapons of the combatants being a cane and razor. Officer Lewis gave them a pressing invitation to take a walk with him, and the Mayor put them under bonds for appearance at court.

Funeral Notice.

Hewlet and Paul, the children of James M. and Frances J. Pool, will be buried from the Salisbury St. Baptist Church at 5 p. m. to-day. The children of the different departments of the Sunday School are requested by the Superintendents to be present on the occasion.

Personal.

T. M. JONES, Pres't.

Two Boys Drowned at Mordecai's Pond.

A sad accident occurred at Mordecai's pond yesterday afternoon, by which two sons of Mr. J. M. Pool, Hewlet and Paul, about 11 and 9 years old were drowned. Neither could swim and they must have sunk soon after going in the water. A young son of Col. W. J. Saunders, who was with them, tried to get them out, but could not. Aid then came from Kingsley & Ashley's planing mills. Mr. Kingsley, his son, Mr. Joyce, and some others ran down. Young Kingsley and Joyce made many trials to get the bodies, but failed. Finally a Mr. Johnson, after diving several times, brought them up. All the efforts to bring them back to life were unavailing. They were taken to their home and the news of their death drew a great crowd. Mr. Pool is, it is thought, dangerously affected by the sudden blow. The dead lads were pupils at the graded school, and of the First Baptist Church Sunday School, and were very smart. It is a great blow to the family, and one of the saddest occurrences ever known here.

THE DANGERS OF THE ROAD.

Constable Barber, of Leachburg, Johnston County, Has a Narrow Escape from a Pistol in the Hands of a Prisoner.

Mr. H. A. Barber, constable at Leachburg, Johnston county, will pay a liberal reward for a black negro man named Hill Johnson. He is about 25 years of age, ugly, has double decker lips, brutish eyes, large carnivorous looking teeth and weighs about 150 pounds. The circumstances that brought about the above offer are worth relating. Mr. Barber was in Raleigh yesterday and recited the episode in a very earnest manner. The negro had been arrested for larceny, was carried before a magistrate and sentenced. While on the way to Smithfield jail, the constable oblivious to his surroundings forgot that the negro was in the same seat with him, accordingly when aroused by the report of a pistol under his coat, he became suddenly conscious and as if by intuition realized the situation. A short but vigorous scuffle ensued. Hill, the negro, got away with or rather from the constable and his hat. An old fashioned race through field and meadow fair took place, wherein the negro hid in the woods and his pursurer hunted for him in vain. Mr. Barber is suffering from the effects of the wound in his arm and will pay a liberal reward for the desperate negro that came so near taking his life.

Fashion Notes.

New silk bows for the throat are made up of the material of the dress and its trimmings.

Worth calls the pink and green tints that he blends with white for bridesmaids' dresses "opaline."

White muslin scarfs bid fair to be very fashionable this season. They are folded double and edged with Breton lace.

The newest French jacket rejoices in the name of the Frousac. It is made of velvet and silk pekin of two colors, and has painted china buttons.

Pretty, soft balls for children are made of hexagonal bits of kid, bound with ribbon and sewed together. Old kid gloves could be used for this purpose.

Muslin handkerchiefs embroidered in colors are caught into a little puff in the center, held by a cluster of flowers, and worn either at the throat or on the head.

Short veils at the back of the head are preferred by American bridesmaids to the bonnets almost always worn by English ladies who appear in the same capacity.

Flowers are not so lavishly used in the decoration of wedding dresses as formerly. Small bouquets are set at intervals down the front, or clusters are fastened in the paniers.

Jet is combined with gold for evening wear at Paris. Jet leaves in embroidery are outlined in gold beads with an effect that is showy and suggestive of an Indian squaw to the irreverent.

One does not say so many yards of Breton lace were used on a dress, but so many dozen yards, and frequently the number is as high as fourteen or fifteen. No wonder the manufacture of imitations flourishes.

The cherry bonnets have arrived in New York. They are India muslin cottage shapes, with the crown covered with large red beads. A wreath of cherry leaves passes around the brim, and from it droops a fringe of cherries shaded from red to black.

Figaro lays down the law that diamonds, precious stones or pearls are the only jewels with which a woman can adorn herself except when in walking costume, and says that a woman ought always to be of sober taste in the matter of gold ornaments. This seems to put the gold cable necklaces out of court altogether.

The man who has a sulking wife
Can't please her with a sonnet;
There's just one way to end the strife
Buy her a summer bonnet.
—Waterloo Observer.

Let us just whisper a word to our young friends: "Don't waste any time 'learnin' to write poetry.'" Become a left-handed batsman. You can name your own terms, and, by standing in with managers of the game, make more money in a single season than the yearly receipt of any poet who ever wrote an English verse.—Toledo Blade.

"I say, Maud," says a young man to a young woman, "really, old girl, you know you ought to bounce that old woman that you have to open the door and do chores. She takes snuff and talks like a magpie and is altogether very revolting." "I know I ought but then, you see, it's difficult to go it. She's my mother. However, I'll give her a talking to."

I heard of a rather amusing reply given the other evening by an American girl in London society, who had strayed away from the ball-room. Her mother subsequently discovered her in a remote nook with a gentleman, who had his arm around her waist, while she rested the tips of her pretty little fingers on his manly shoulder. "Daughter, what's all this?" exclaimed the irate mamma. Saucy cheeks looked up calmly and replied; "Mamma, allow me to introduce Capt. X. to you. I had promised him a dance, but I was so tired that I couldn't keep my word, and I'm just giving him a sitting-still waltz instead."—Olive Logan.

Sweet-Sixteen.

"You think the world is only made
For you and such as you," he said,
Laughing aloud in boyish scorn,
Of boyish mirth and mischief born.

She never turned from where she stood
Prinking her little silken snood
Of silken curls before the glass,
She never turned to see him pass.

Nor answer him, save with a laugh
That half confest his boyish "chaff."
But left alone, confronted there
With her own image fresh and fair.

A sudden blush lit up her face
With newer youth and fresher grace,
And eyes that were demurely fixt
A moment since, with thought unmixt,

Upon the smoothing of a tress,
Now sparkled soft with consciousness,
"Why not, why not?" she lightly cried,
Out of the gay exultant pride,

The sweet wild innocence of youth;
"Why not for me, for me, forsooth,
And such as me the world be made,
For me its glories all arrayed?

"For since the world and life begun,
What poet's measures have not run
Through all the strains of minstrelsy,
In praise of me, and such as me?

"For youth and beauty in its day
Has ruled the world, and will for aye,
One, greatest of them all, has sung,
In verse that thro' the world has rung.

"And here's my days to live and reign,
To take the joy and leave the pain
For this old world, that's made for me.
For me, for me and such as me!"

Gay laughter rang through every word.
And yet beneath the laughter stirred
A something more than jesting play,—
Just sweet sixteen that very day.

She half believed in sober truth,
In the sweet insolence of youth,
That all for her, a foolish maid,
The world's gay glories were arrayed.

Port Grape Wine for Sickness.

Decidedly one of the nicest and most creditable of any article of Wine we have ever seen, is the Wine bearing the above name made from the Portugal Port Grape cultivated by Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J. This Wine, under the hand of Mr. Speer, has been brought to a state of great perfection. It possesses the very highest medicinal virtues, and certainly as an article of beverage it is not, in our judgment to be surpassed in color, taste, or any of the qualities which constitute a pure, mild and agreeable wine.—Boston Post. The Solargraph Watch.

Only $1.00 for a perfect time-keeper, hunting-case, and heavy plated chain, latest style. We warrant at for five years to denote time as accurately as a $100 Chronometer watch, and will give the exact time in any part of the world. It also contains a first-class compass, worth alone the price we charge for the time-keeper. For men, boys, mechanics, school teachers, travelers and farmers, it is indispensible. They are as good as a high-priced watch, and in many cases, more reliable. Boys think of it! A hunting case watch and chain for $1. The Solargraph watch is used by the Principal of the Somerville High School, and is being fast introduced into all the schools throughout the United States, and is destined to become the most useful time-keeper ever invented. The Solargraph watch received a Medal at the Mechanics' Fair, at Boston, in 1878. This is no toy, but is made on scientific principals, and every one warranted to be accurate and reliable. We have made the price very low, simply to introduce them at once, after which the price will be raised. The Solargraph watch and chain is put up in a neat outside case, and sent by mail to any address for $1. We have made the price so low, please send two stamps, if convenient, to help pay postage. Address plainly,

Avoid Fraudulent Imitations.

The many imitations of a good thing are the best evidences of its worth. No one ever saw a counterfeit note on a busted bank. So the imitators in plan and policy of the celebrated Louisiana State Lottery Company make a flourish in a way calculated to attract some notice; but then a years practical test has proven that this institution has always fulfilled its promises to the letter, and many hundred thousands have been distributed. For further information, apply to M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692, New Orleans. *

Unheard of Bargains!

Who tries his best to please his friends
And in his labors never ends,
Bargains he'll give you when you call
For No. 10 is all and all.
Of other houses you hear them talk;
In Fayetteville street just take a walk
And only ask for No. 10,
Kept by the most ingenious of men,
And when his friends by chance drop in
Then forth he comes, Lord what a grin,
And to their wondering eyes displays
Such heaps of brackets and window shades.
His pictures are exposed to public view
And a variety of cord to suspend them too,
His looking glasses and toilet cases
Will help adorn your forms and faces;
Picture frames and mouldings too
In great variety, black, brown and blue.
His window cornices and lambrequins fine,
Will make your rooms and parlor shine.
Perforated mottoes, and white holly baskets,
And every other sort of stuff,
Of which he hopes to have enough.
So now he bids you all adieu
And wishes a happy new year too,
And not forget

Genuine Mackinaw Hats at $1.50 and $2.00, at R. B. Andrews & Co's. Clothiers and Hatters.

The Celebrated Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass.

This is decidedly the most useful, besides being the most efficient Family Medicine ever placed within the reach of any people. Its reputation extends far and wide, and its great popularity is due entirely to its own merits. For relieving Sick and Nervous Headache, it may be truly said, to have no equal. Dyspeptics find it just the remedy for their troubles. Mothers and daughters have long since discovered in its use a "panacea" for their worst ills; and now we have the testimonies of two eminent ministers of the gospel, from Southern cities, setting forth its specific effects in other more dreaded and troublesome diseases.

Rev. John F. Mayne, Theological Seminary, Columbia, S. C., writes: "Am afflicted with that terrible disease, 'Diabetes;' am using the 'Seven Springs Mass' with a considerable degree of relief; is the only remedy I have yet found to suit my case; want to continue its use until a cure is enected if possible. Send worth of the enclosed P. O. order immediately.

JNO. F. MAYNE.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 23d, 1879.

Rev. J. D. Parker, of New Orleans, La., writes: "Having tried effectually the 'Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass,' for Diarhea, Kidney afflictions, &c., I take pleasure in recommending its use in these complaints. In my case it affords immediate relief.

J. D. PARKER."

New Orleans, La., Feb. 11th, 1879.

For sale by Wm. Simpson, Pescud, Lee & Co., and F. H. Heartt, Raleigh, N. C., and Druggists generally.

City Bottling Works.

For Upwards of Thirty Years.

Mrs. Winslows Soothing Syrup has been used for children. It corrects acidity of the stomach, relieves windcolic, regulates the bowels, cures dysentery and diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. An old and well-tried remedy. 25 cents a bottle. *

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretion of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, Free of Charge. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph T. Inman, Station D., New York City. *

The Greatest Blessing.

A simple, pure, harmless remedy that cures every time, and prevents disease by keeping the blood pure, stomach regular, kidneys and liver active, is the greatest blessing ever conferred upon man. Hop Bitters is that remedy, and its proprietors are being blessed by thousands who have been saved and cured by it. Will you try it? See another column. *

Did You Know!

That Brewster has a machinist who has served a regular time at the sewing machine business and is ready to repair all kinds of sewing machines and warrant them. Don't let anyone trade you out of a good machine because it is a little out of order, but send it to Brewster and save money. Sewing machine attachments, oil, needles, &c., for sale. A good plaiter for only one dollar, send for sample and if not satisfactory the money will be refunded.

may 15-3t. J. C. BREWSTER.

Those Old Plates.

We know of no reasonable excuse for the large number of old, cracked and chipped plates, cups, &c., &c. Surely every one must know that these goods can be bought at Law's Silver and China Store cheaper than ever. So throw away the old crockery while there is such a good chance to replace it reasonably.

Unseen.

While other articles of their kind are largely adulterated, Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder holds its unshaken position as the purest, best and most reliable. In all particulars that constitutes perfect results, it cannot be approached by any other Baking Powder in the market.

If you need good oak or pine wood get it of Martin & Osborn. Oak at $5.00, pine $2.50. Delivered by the cord. On hand also, 1000 bushels feed oats, cheap. *
